DETAILED ACTION

Sequence Information

1. This application contains sequence disclosures that are encompassed by the definitions for nucleotide and/or amino acid sequences set forth in 37 CFR 1.821(a)(1) and (a)(2). However, this application fails to comply with the requirements of 37 CFR 1.821 through 1.825 for the reason(s) set forth on the attached Notice To Comply With Requirements For Patent Applications Containing Nucleotide Sequence And/Or Amino Acid Sequence Disclosures. The applicant did not submit a CRF with this application, nor have they assigned a sequence identifier (SEQ ID NO:) for every disclosed unbranched nucleic acid sequence of 10 or more nucleotides.

A complete response to this Office Action requires that Applicants comply with the sequence rules, and that pending rejections be addressed. Any response that does not address all of these issues will be held as non-responsive. Direct the reply to the undersigned. Applicant is requested to return a copy of the attached Notice to Comply with the reply.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 32 recites "an RNA polymerase promoter sequence; and. instructions.." This phrase contains improper punctuation and grammar. An appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 32-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Claims 32-40 read on a broad genus of RNA polymerase promoters and reverse transcriptase enzymes. However, the claims embrace a genus of nucleic acid sequences and enzymes that read on sequences and enzymes isolated from any organism or virus and comprising any polymorphic or allelic variants of the claimed compounds. The specification as filed does not provide a representative number of nucleic acid sequences or enzymes that would allow one of skill in the art to clearly envisage all the members of the claimed genus. Furthermore, the specification does not provide any common structural or functional features that would identify the members of the claimed genus of DNA sequences. Applicants do not disclose any other nucleotide structures corresponding to the claimed RNA polymerase promoter sequence other than SEQ ID NO:1, this sequence is not representative of all members of the claimed genus. The general knowledge and level of skill in the art do not supplement the omitted description because specific, not general, guidance is needed. Since the disclosure fails to describe the common attributes or characteristics that identify members of the claimed genus, and because the genus is highly variant, the specification alone is not sufficient to describe the claimed genus.

An adequate written description of a nucleic acid sequence or an enzyme, such as the RNA polymerase promoter sequences and the reverse transcriptase enzyme of the instant invention, "requires a precise definition, such as by structure, formula, chemical name, or physical properties," not a mere wish or plan for obtaining the claimed chemical invention. Fiers v. Revel , 984 F.2d 1164, 1171, 25 USPQ2d 1601, 1606 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Accordingly, "an adequate written description of a DNA requires more than a mere statement that it is part of the invention and reference to a potential method for isolating it; what is required is a description of the DNA itself." Id. at 1170, 25 USPQ2d at 1606.

Therefore, the specification as filed does not describe the claimed compounds in such full and concise terms so as to indicate that the applicant had possession of the claimed genus of RNA polymerase promoter sequences and reverse transcriptase enzymes at the time of filing of this application.
